

Teaching in the Dark

A pre-European Māori teaching methodology in a University!?!

Karyn Paringatai

Te Tumu – School of Maori, Pacific & Indigenous Studies

University of Otago

Technology in the classroom

“I want to be a teacher Grandma”

Kei roto i te pōuri te māramatanga e whiti ana.

The potential for enlightenment can be found glimmering in the dark.

Committee for the Advancement of Learning and Teaching (CALT)

1. Enhance the execution of performance.
2. Enhance aural receptive skills and retention of information.
3. Innovators in the development of Māori performing arts teaching methodologies.
4. Revitalisation of the Māori language.
5. Contribute to Māori knowledge and development.

Learner Benefits

1. Improved listening skills.
2. Increased repertoire of songs learnt.
3. Minimised embarrassment.
4. Higher grades.
5. International students taking leading roles.
6. Poi and haka strengthened.
7. Used in other subject areas.

Teaching in the Dark

A pre-European Māori teaching methodology in a University ✓✓✓

Karyn Paringatai

Te Tumu – School of Maori, Pacific & Indigenous Studies

University of Otago